- Be part of the sustainable food revolution and work for a disruptive technology that will change the world of food
- Join a diverse team of top-notch experts with a variety of backgrounds and interests
- Regular team offsites, monthly perks, and many more

What you will be doing

- Support the experimental and analytical work to integrate our ingredients into new prototypes and products
- Draft and plan your own work package
- Generate and apply knowledge in the required domain at a fundamental and applied science level
- Translate discoveries into applications through rapid prototyping
- Collaborate in a cross-functional team with experts from different disciplines
- Hands-on support to the team when needed

Who you are

- Enrolled in a Bachelor or Master's Program in Food Science / Food Technology or a related field
- Experienced in laboratory work
- Driven, hands-on and willing to learn new skills
- Able to adapt to a fast-paced environment and a high-level of ambiguity
- Passionate about food, health, nutrition and sustainability
- Fluent in English, German would be a plus

About Formo

Formo creates a new generation of dairy products. Instead of animals, we use fermentation to produce real milk proteins which we incorporate into traditional European cheese products. We envision a happier, healthier future by irresistible change in the food system: where animal-free is hedonistic, cheese is deliciously high-tech, and anybody anywhere can enjoy fromage that's perfect for them. Formo is a venture-backed, fast-growing company. We employ a global team of highly-skilled entrepreneurs and scientists who bring real innovation to life. Our common thread? A passion for challenging the status quo and transforming the food industry.

Benefits

- Join one of the most innovative food start-ups in Berlin 🚀
- Discounted public transport passes, fitness memberships, wellbeing program, language classes, corporate benefits, and your choice of a Mac or Windows laptop
- A high degree of collaboration and autonomy while working with a group of diverse peers, getting things done attitude, and access to cutting edge food technologies
- Free drinks and snacks in the office, regular cheese tastings 🧀, weekly team lunch, and fun team events
- Innovative Office & Lab Experience
